

Bennett Duncan celebrated for 40 years of service

THE HERALD-NEWS

If you are a Breckinridge County native, your lifestyle most likely involves frequent trips to the local Walmart. I know I have been making these trips ever since I can remember, and there are certain faces I can recall always being there. One of those friendly faces is Nancy Bennett Duncan.

Nancy has been employed with Walmart for 40 years and has mastered all of the positions she has worked during that time. She graduated high school in May of 1984 and applied to Walmart in December of that year. Since Dec. 19, 1984, Nancy has been with the company, working many jobs including cashier, Customer Service Manager, Department Manager, and Human Resources Manager for the last 22 years. She began her journey with Walmart by unloading fixtures from supply trucks when the Hardinsburg store opened its doors in 1985.

Nancy is now the last original employee that still works at our local store. I'm certain we all have a memory or two of talking with Nancy during our necessary Walmart errands.

honor of her 40-year anniversary, Nancy was invited to the Walmart Home Office in Bentonville, Ark. During her visit, she sat down with Walmart CEO Doug McMillon for a one-on-one talk about her 40 years of service with the company.

Nancy Bennett Duncan recently celebrated 40 years of being an employee of the Hardinsburg Walmart.

This past May, Nancy was awarded the title of Best Trainer in Region 41, which includes 123 Walmart stores. Looking to the future, Nancy is set to retire next year, and she plans to spend time with her family and beloved peacocks.

Nancy's daughter, Chelsie Butler, shared that, despite maintaining a successful career, her mom has balanced work and family life very well.

"I can't remember one thing my sister, myself, or the grandkids have done that Mom has missed," Butler said. "She has always balanced her world around us."

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE TASK FORCE This task force will study the role of artificial intelligence in Kentucky's economy and government. It will explore responsible AI adoption, governance frameworks, and digital infrastructure needs while promoting innovation, public education, and policies that balance opportunity with privacy, safety, and ethical standards.

KENTUCKY HOUSING TASK FORCEThe panel will continue working to find ways to make safe, affordable, quality housing more available across Kentucky. This includes looking closely at things like how much housing costs, how the population is changing, and where jobs are available — both statewide and in specific areas. The panel will also review the laws, rules, and procedures that affect how housing is built and who can access it. They will study how the costs of housing, utilities, and healthcare are connected, to better understand what "affordable" really means for Kentuckians. In addition, the task force will examine land use, zoning rules, and infrastructure to find out what's getting in the way of building more homes.

Members also look at what other states and cities are doing to increase housing supply and help more people become homeowners.

TIPS

spray. Remember to pack important items like prescription medications in your carry-on luggage in the event of an emergency, or if your checked bags get lost during travel.

Take care of your health during your vacation. Physical activity may help reduce stress and promote well-being. Plan to incorporate some form of activity during your vacation, such as sightseeing walks, bike rides or daytime hikes. To help avoid dehydration, carry a water bottle and refill it throughout the day. Also, make sure to wear and reapply sunscreen to protect your skin and use bug spray to keep yourself safe from bug bites.

Prepare for possible jet lag. Data shows that 60-70% of long-distance travelers may experience some form of jet lag. Preparing for time changes and getting good sleep prior to travel may help reduce symptoms of jet lag. Make sure to drink lots of water. At your destination, soak in the sunlight as this may help reset your internal clock to help promote better sleep, which may be key to reducing jet lag and supporting your immune system.

Consider travel medical insurance and travel protection. Accidents happen. That's why it's important to be prepared for the unexpected. That may include making sure you have health coverage while you're away, which may help you avoid major costs in the event of an accident or sudden illness. If you plan to travel, check with your health plan to see what coverage you may have at your destination — especially if you're traveling internationally as many health plans may not cover medical expenses while abroad.

These tips may help you stay on top of your health so you can enjoy a worry-free vacation and return home reenergized.

for equipment, working capital, land or building acquisitions, but cannot be used for new development. These loans are provided at rates four percentage points below the U.S. Prime Interest Rate and require a primary source of funding. Maximum loan terms are 15 years for fixed assets and five years for working capital. With $193,000 currently available for loans, LTADD stands ready to assist small businesses in financing new ventures and capitalizing on the region's economic momentum.

The LTADD EDA-CARES Business Relief Working Capital Loan is designed for businesses impacted by COVID-19 or the current economic climate, providing working capital for payroll, rent, utilities, inventory management and other short-term needs. Loans under this program range from $5,000 to $40,000, with terms up to 36 months, and are offered at low interest rates (Wall Street Journal Prime minus 4 points, no lower than 4%). The EDA-CARES program specifically helps with recovery and resilience, with $170,000 available for loans to businesses in industrial, manufacturing, commercial, agricultural, service, transportation or healthcare sectors.

Since its inception in the Lincoln Trail region, the RLF program has now empowered 86 small business owners, disbursing more than $3.7 million in loan funds and catalyzing the creation of 905 jobs while retaining 346 positions in the region.

With careful oversight from the LTADD Loan Review Committee and Board of Directors, our dedicated staff handles every aspect of the program, from coordinating applications to managing financial reporting. We closely monitor RLF-funded projects to ensure they align with our work to drive economic growth and job creation.
