

WOOD

Reese Robinett to his left. Robinett snagged the ball and touched the bag for the last out of the seventh inning.

Wood showed early signs that this could be a special day. He had excellent command of his signature four-seam fastball, breaking ball and change-up. Of his first 20 fastballs, 19 were strikes, and he fanned nine of the first 12 batters he faced — seven in a row from the third to fifth innings.

Wood has gone from closer as a freshman to middle reliever as a sophomore to weekend starter as a junior. He injured his right shoulder throwing a warmup pitch in his Feb. 23 start against Michigan and didn't return until April 18 against Texas A&M, a total of 54 days. He went into Monday's game having thrown just 28 ²/₃ innings this season.

He threw a career-long six innings and struck out a career-high 13 against Creighton in a June 1 regional game against Creighton, then went 3 ¹/₃ innings in a super regional win over Tennessee on June 8.

Wood now joins Ehrler and Wixson in CWS lore. Ehrler's no-hitter came in Texas' 7-0 win over Tufts on June 19, 1950, and Wixson's came in a 7-0 victory over North Carolina on June 15, 1960.

"I think for him to do that and just be able to catch the last ball, give him a big hug, it was awesome," catcher Ryder Helfrick said. "I think everybody was really fired up for him.

The main thing is we're still here and we're still playing."

Helfrick immediately gave the ball to Wood after catching the last pitch. Asked what he did with it, Wood said, "I gave it to my dad and said happy late Father's Day."

The Razorbacks broke open the game after Murray State's Graham Kelham relieved Isaac Silva to start the seventh. SEC player of the year Wehiwa Aloy doubled in a run and another scored when right fielder Dustin Mercer tried to make a shoestring catch on Logan Maxwell's shallow fly and the ball got under his glove.

Arkansas pitcher Gage Wood celebrates after striking out Murray State's Jonathan Hogart for a no-hitter and a record 19 strikeouts in an NCAA College World Series baseball game at Charles Schwab Field on Monday in Omaha, Neb.
