STATE

any way, such as 503.

Bonnie Waters, who has returned from Kentucky after living several years in Oregon, said that won't be an issue. She still has her old Oregon cell phone number, and that area code is 503. She is in support of Option 1, to make it easier for businesses and other organizations.

“It's signage, it's stationary, it's websites, it's all of it, and all of their state filings where they're registered,” she said. “For a small business, that is a lot of stuff.”

Scott Wantland, with Wantland Law PLLC in Shepherdsville, can sympathize. He spoke Monday and told the crowd that changing area codes would be “economically devastating to me.”

Residents and business owners can attend any of the public forums and register their thoughts on which option they prefer, or online at psc.ky.gov.

Documents in the 502 area code case can be found on the PSC Web site. The case number is 2024-00333. <https://psc.ky.gov/Case/ViewCaseFilings/2024-00333>.
