Positive Adult Role Models Benefit Children

Children begin learning about life early on from the people who surround them. From the earliest age, youngsters mimic their parents and look to caregivers to guide their development and demonstrate proper be-

According to Words Alive, an organization inspiring a commitment to reading for life success, 90 percent of a child's brain develops by age five. During these first five years, abilities such as motivation, problem solving, communication, and self-regulation are formed. Having the right role models in a child's life influencing them through these formative years can set a foundation for success.

What is a role model?

A role model is a person whose behaviors are emulated by others, according to Connections Academy® by Pearson. When a child has a positive role model, there is a greater likelihood the youngster will engage in constructive behavior that mirrors the person he or she looks up to.

Why are positive role models important? Adult-child interactions can help shape an individual. The Center of the Developing Child at Harvard University noted that if an adult's responses toward a child are inappropriate or unreliable, that child's brain architecture may be disrupted and their emotional health impaired. The opposite is true when children have positive influences in their lives who respond properly to a child's behavior.

Choosing safe adults

It is vital to surround children with safe adults who can be positive role models. According to Perpetrators of Sexual Violence: Statistics by RAINN, 93 percent of juvenile sexual abuse cases knew the perpetrator, and 34 percent were family members. Safe adults are those who model healthy behaviors and actions to set an example for the child. Although a child's uncle may be a beloved family member, that person may not necessarily be the best to be alone and interact with a child frequently.

that needed attention. While catastrophic events are never welcome, Union County has, since the Dawson Springs tornado, put in place many measures to help residents and provide resources for rescue, recovery, and clean-up. The county has shored up its communication systems, bought a mobile command center and put together plans to help its residents in scenarios like the one the county experienced Friday night. US 60 and KY 56 were cleared of debris quickly by state and county employees, making getting heavy equipment to damaged sites much easier with less wait time, and extra hospital personnel was called in to help with any injuries according to a person on scene Saturday morning. Crews worked from the time the storm hit until the early hours Saturday morning, taking a short break before returning to work as daylight broke. Though the loss of property will be substantial for county residents, the fact that no lives were lost and injuries were minor speaks the preparations emergency personnel

The last one hit the Uniontown area on April 2, 2024, and then within the year, the county experienced an ice storm followed by heavy flooding, and in between there have been other storms with high winds that caused substantial property damage. What are good role model behaviors?

The following are some key characteristics of a positive role model.

- · Lives a healthy lifestyle that focuses on physical and mental well-being. This is a person who eats healthy meals, lives an active lifestyle and makes good health choices like not smoking or drinking alcohol to excess.
- Treats others with respect and practices self-awareness about behaviors. When the role model makes a mistake, he or she owns that mistake and tries to remedy it.
- Establishes goals and shows a commitment to values. A good role model is passionate about what they do, has a strong work ethic, and showcases confidence.
- Tries to keep a positive attitude and is accepting and supportive of others.

• A positive role model also may think about the kinds of people they looked up to when they were younger and the traits those people exhibited. Then those similar traits can be implemented when interacting with children and adults.

Positive role models can impact children's development and put them on the path to becoming well-adjusted, positive and dedicated members of society.

showed levels of iron and manganese in the water; however, those minerals can be treated with pressure filters, according to Davis.

Davis added, "This project is worth moving forward." He and Mayor Adams were scheduled to visit Ellis Park in Henderson last week to view the water system operated at that facility. Ellis Park has its own independent water system. According to Davis, the city could develop a system which could be operated without being manned.

The pair have also visited with officials in Frankfort in an effort to get the local water plan reclassified in order to operate through automated systems and remote monitoring. "I think we can produce water for $2.00 per gallon or less," Davis added. He noted the quantity of water is sufficient to service the needs of city residents and surrounding areas.

The city has two options concerning the water plant – modifying the existing structure or building a new facility. The project has a projected cost of $7.7 million.

"This project will move at the speed of government," Davis said. City officials will begin to seek funding sources for the project. There is also going to be re-testing of the wells.

Those tests will run for seven consecutive days. City officials want to make sure the quality of the water is sufficient to continue with the project. Council members approved an expenditure of $9,000 to pay for additional engineering, drilling, and lab analysis. In final business, Mayor Adams expressed his appreciation to council members Dennis Odom and John Deibler for their efforts in maintaining the baseball fields in Sturgis. He also noted new signage for the community will soon be erected on U.S. 60. The work on that signage was completed compliments of Saturn Machine.

Wade Wallace, a member of the board of directors at Elkwood Golf Course, addressed the council concerning leakage at one of the levees at the wastewater treatment plant. He told members the leakage is affecting business at the golf course.

Mayor Adams noted the leakage is apparently cause by the excessive rainfall during the spring; however, the city will take samples from the overflow and will also speak with the engineer who is in charge of the renovation at the plant. No further business came before the council,
