Breckinridge County senior forward Rowan Radaszewski has taken on more leadership this season, she and her coach, Chad Moorman, say.

tournament — one they have won the last two years over Meade County.

The 5-foot-11 Radaszewski has played a key role on this year's team and was averaging 13.2 points and 4.6 rebounds a game prior to facing Owensboro.

She also was shooting 29.4% on 3-pointers, making 45-of-153 attempts.

"Her ability to score has been a big part of our team this year," Breckinridge County head coach Chad Moorman said. "She has put in countless hours in the gym to become more consistent of a 3-point shooter this year."

Last year, Radaszewski averaged 7.2 points and 3.4 rebounds a game and shot 25.5% on 3s, making 39 of her 153 attempts.

"My versatility has helped me find better scoring opportunities, whether it's spacing the floor, shooting the open shot, or attacking when the chance is given," she said. "I feel like the opportunity is really there for me this year, and I'm taking every advantage I can and making the most out of my senior year."

"I think the biggest change for me this season has been my confidence and mindset," Radaszewski said. "I've been more aggressive in looking for my shot, but I've also learned how to read the defense better and take what they give me. Continuing to play AAU throughout the past four years has helped me to develop throughout the offseason and level up my game. It has given me many different opportunities to play different styles of play and overall understand the game better."

She said she also has been focusing more on her defensive game and becoming a more vocal leader on the team.

"As a senior, I really try to lead by example every day, whether that's in practice, in games, or just in how I carry myself around the team," she said. "I want the younger players to feel supported and confident, so I try to encourage them and help them learn from mistakes instead of getting frustrated. I see my role as someone who helps set the tone, keep the energy positive, while also sticking to our main goal of winning a regional championship."

Moorman said he has seen her as a different player this season. Radaszewski has gone from being content to sit back and let others lead to trying to step forward and push the team forward.

"Her leadership has really stepped up this year as well," Moorman said. "Before, she was always a quiet player and didn't show much fire in her. But this season has definitely been different as she has played the senior role great. Defensively Rowan has really stepped up — her arm span and height have made it hard on guards this season."

While her high-school career is winding down, she has committed to play at Hanover College in Hanover, Ind., where she plans to major in business with a focus on real estate.

"I can't wait to take my career to the next level," she said. "... Hanover is very family driven, and I can't wait to call it home next year."

The Lady Tigers begin a three-game homestand to close the regular season Saturday against Hopkins County Central in the Vintage Classic at Breckinridge County High School.

he said. "And thank you for leading on this legislation that effectively says whatever you're going to increase in administrators' pay, you've got to increase that teachers' pay by that much or more," he said.

Sen. Stephen Meredith, R-Leitchfield, said from a rural perspective, more focus might be needed on principals rather than superintendents. He said finding and keeping talent is a growing challenge, and he expressed concern that rural districts can't react quickly enough to increased salaries in urban areas.

"I'm concerned about the unintended consequences for rural communities. I understand what you're trying to accomplish, and I applaud that and I support that. I just don't think this is the vehicle to do it," he said.

Givens said his understanding is the waiver process is expedited very quickly. Senate Democratic Floor Leader Gerald A. Neal, D-Louisville, said he's concerned districts aren't fully funded in general.

Sen. Steve Rawlings, R-Burlington, said years ago when Japan was experiencing expansive economic development, he heard a story about how chief executive officers couldn't make more money than nine times what the very lowest-paid person could make.

"I definitely support this bill. I like the context and manner and the thoughtfulness for which it's done. So, I'm a yes vote," he said.

coming to Kentucky.

"To ask us just to wait for health care or drive up the road, that's unreasonable. It's not fair. It's terribly unfair," he said. "And that's all we're asking is let these hospitals have some additional resources so they can lift themselves up to be the best that they can be. That's all this amounts to. It's not replacing doctors."

The bill cleared the Senate on a 27-11 vote and now heads to the House for consideration.
