

Carlisle County Schools bring Thanksgiving meals to families

By Laurna Todd

This Thanksgiving, Carlisle County Schools went above and beyond to support their community. The Carlisle County Schools STARS Center took on a special mission, providing Thanksgiving meals for students and families. Thanks to the dedication of staff, local churches, and generous businesses, over 100 plates were shared across the county. The preparation of the meals included nine turkeys and four tenderloins brined and smoked by staff and volunteers. Carlisle County Middle School families also made a big impact, collecting around 800 items for the school's food drive. All donations were given to Bardwell Baptist and Bethlehem Baptist churches, helping ensure families in need had meals to enjoy. School officials expressed gratitude for the community's generosity and the example it sets for students, emphasizing the power of giving back. Through these combined efforts, Carlisle County Schools once again showed that compassion, service, and gratitude are at the heart of their mission.

Carlisle County senior honored as Associated General Contractors Student of the Week

Carlisle County High School senior Jake Trevathan has earned recognition as the Associated General Contractors of Western Kentucky's Technical Centers Student of the Week, celebrated for his commitment to skilled trades and his growing role in supporting regional industry.

Trevathan's interest in electrical work began at the Mayfield/Graves County Area Technology Center, where classroom instruction quickly turned into practical ability. Coming from a family deeply rooted in the trades, he found a natural pathway into hands-on work that benefits the community.

That experience expanded when he began working at a local boatyard, a place where commercial vessels regularly stop for re-pairs. Whether assisting crews who need temporary power connections or helping address electrical issues discovered during river travel, Trevathan has become a reliable part of day-to-day operations. His work ranges from setting up high-voltage shore power to helping troubleshoot maintenance problems that keep vessels running safely.

With graduation approaching, Trevathan's next goal is to join the apprenticeship program at IBEW Local 816 in Paducah. His plan is to build on the skills he has already developed and work toward becoming a Journeyman Electrician, contributing to the workforce that keeps Western Kentucky's industries moving.
