me. I came in knowing I was going to hit it, and that home run felt really great, especially since I didn't have to sprint around the bases."

Sutton's dinger made it 6-0 Warhawks, and Brenna pitched another 1-2-3 inning in the bottom of the fourth, striking out two more Lady Flyers.

The fifth inning was the lone offensive dud for the Lady Warhawks, as they went down in order.

But Brenna kept the Flyers grounded in the bottom of the inning, giving up her first hit, an infield single, before getting three straight groundouts to escape the frame.

Great Crossing released a series of five straight hit singles to start the sixth inning, with Molly, Green, Hoover, Emma Sutton, and Holbrook all reaching, and Hoover, Emma Sutton, and Holbrook driving in runs to make it 9-0.

Emma got cut down after an ambitious attempt at stretching her single to a double, and a double play ended the inning.

Brenna gave up the second hit of the evening in the bottom of the sixth, but a flyout, strikeout, and popout made for a quick frame.

Livingston led off the seventh with a single, followed by Mullins with a walk, and Brenna with a single to load the bases.

Molly hit deep fly ball to score Livingston from third, and Green capped the scoring with a sacrifice fly to score Cheyenne Shaddix (running for Brenna) from third.

It took Brenna just five pitches to dismantle the Lady Flyers in the seventh, with a ground out to Holbrook at third base, a pop out to Kymberlin Masino (who had perhaps the play of the game early on with a fabulous diving grab on a liner), and a grounder to Masino to end it.

The win gives the Warhawks the win in the season series after they dropped their first game to the Lady Flyers 14-7, before winning the final two contests 8-2 and 11-0.

The win cements fifth straight district title for the Warhawks, who have won every year they have existed as a program.

Next up, the 11th Region Tournament. The Warhawks played Madison Southern at Eastern
