For where thy go, I will go: A journey with a Navy Officer

By Paula L. Ratliff Guest Contributor

"For whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge, thy people shall be my people, and thy God, my God." (Ruth 1:16). Dona Rae Chapman knew the instant she saw his "pretty, dark brown eyes" that he was the one and she readily signed on for a life with her Navy officer.

It started at a church picnic in the small town of Millington, Tennessee, on a Sunday afternoon as her church served homecooked meals to the Navy personnel stationed nearby. She watched as he played badminton. "I just kept looking," she said.

Someone advised her to "look at those big, brown eyes, don't you let him get out of here" in close proximity to James Thomas Boyter, and as he smiled, Dona shyly said, "She says what she thinks." He introduced himself and the romance began, lasting 49 years until his death in 2008. They met around Easter 1958 and were married June 18, 1959.

Dona graduated from Jackson Tennessee College and had a job before she met James. She earned $1.50 an hour typing.

James was born in Glasgow, Kentucky, and graduated from Temple High School in 1955. He worked at the Trigg Plaza during high school and was a star basketball player. After graduation, he enlisted in the Navy for four years and served aboard four different ships. During his enlistment, he participated in Operation Red Wing and observed the first air dropped detonation of a Hydrogen Bomb in 1956, followed by a winter in the Antarctic on Operation Deep Freeze III.

After he finished his first tour in June 1959, Dona recalls that he couldn't find a job. One day, he received a call from a Navy officer who asked him if he would like to work in Hawaii, to which Dona replied, "Who wouldn't?" They loaded up and headed to Hawaii, the first of a dozen moves the couple would make while serving our country.

He worked for a year with Bendix Field Engineering on the Pacific Missile Range and assisted in the recovery of the first satellite recovered from space, Discoverer XIII. He did a lot of "crypted teletype," she said.

While in Hawaii, Dona enjoyed the pineapple and sugar cane fields and stayed busy. She became pregnant with their first child and flew home to be with her family. As she left the airport, James pleaded of his wife, "Any name, but Junior." Well, she named him "Junior."

He soon joined Dona and Junior. Times were hard and he couldn't find a job that paid enough to support the family, so he decided to enroll in Georgetown College and received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Biology and Chemistry in 1964. years of age, so it was hard to make a living. He didn't make enough money on a teacher's salary, so he applied to Officers Candidate School," said Dona.

On the road again, the family moved to Pensacola, Florida, and James entered the Naval Preflight Program and was designated a Naval Flight Officer in June 1965. After designation, he reported to Reconnaissance Attack Squadron Three for training in the RA-5C Vigilante, a Mach-2 Tactical Reconnaissance aircraft. He then served in four fleet squadrons logging 350 carrier landings, over one hundred combat flights over North Vietnam off the USS Enterprise in 1966-67 and 1971 and over 2,700 hours in the RA5C aircraft. He served two, ninemonth deployments in Vietnam.

Dona and Jim communicated with letters and cassette tapes. She would record messages from the kids to send to him.

Dona enjoyed living in Florida and said the kids could play outside all the time. She recalled one time when Junior walked to the beach before anyone realized he was missing. When a volunteer found his cowboy boots on the pier, they feared the worst, but thankfully he was fine.

"I didn't scold him, I just cried," she said.

Dona shared memories of their many moves and the strict policies they could not fraternize with others. "It made for a lonely life, especially after 11:00 p.m. when the kids went to bed. He was often away on missions."

She hand-sewed their clothes, did two loads of laundry a day, and cooked three meals a day, "Well, I fed them, not necessarily cooking, hot dogs and hamburgers were an easy meal. The military housing was excellent for officers. We didn't have much entertainment. Our 13-inch black and white television had one channel. We had a telephone, but he couldn't call me. I took the kids to church and the ballpark."

They moved back to Nashville, then back to Key West, Florida, where she was able to travel with him for one month to Italy, Spain, and Greece. She lovingly remembers the military balls.

When asked about the protests about Vietnam, Dona said they didn't experience anything specific, but she and her family recalled a lot about race relations as they moved to different locations. Their daughter, Lee Boyter Hayden, gave an example of her mother's reaction to discrimination.

"I was in first or second grade and we were in Albany, Georgia. Mom was in her robe and singing in the choir. A white man and black woman entered the church and sat toward the front. She watched as a deacon approached them and they got up and left. She noticed her mom leaving the choir loft and she didn't know why.

Well, a minute later, here comes Mom without her choir robe. She walked up the aisle to the pew where us four kids and Dad were sitting. She grabbed him by the arm and proclaimed, 'We will not go to a church where they will not let people come in to worship.' There she was, all five feet of her small stature and weighing about 100 pounds, standing as tall as Dad who was six feet tall. Together, we all marched down that aisle and never returned to that church."

Her actions resulted in the church addressing race relations. "I am so proud of her for taking that bold step," said Lee. "She may be small in stature, but she was a giant in strength."

In February 1977, James accepted his final assignment in recruitment with the Navy in Nashville, Tennessee, retiring in 1980. The district included most of Tennessee, North Alabama, North Georgia, the western portion of Virginia, and Southern Kentucky.

She remembers arriving in Hendersonville, just outside of Nashville, during the snow blizzard of 1977. We

Please contact the county clerk's office to receive instructions on the method the office is using to accept appeals this year and to obtain a form that can be used to file your appeal.

Any taxpayer failing to appeal to the county board of assessment appeals, or failing to appear before the board, either in person or by designated representative, will not be eligible to appeal directly to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.

Appeals of personal property assessments shall not be made to the county board of assessment appeals. Personal property taxpayers shall be served notice under the provisions of KRS 132.450(4) and shall have the protest and appeal rights granted under the provisions of KRS 131.110.

The following steps should be taken when a taxpayer does not agree with the assessed value of personal property as determined by the property valuation administrator.

- (1) He must list under protest (for certification) what he believes to be the fair cash value of his property.
- (2) He must file a written protest directly with the Department of Revenue, Office of Property Valuation within 30 days from the date of the notice of assessment.
- (3) This protest must be in accordance with KRS 131.110.
- (4) The final decision of the Department of Revenue may be appealed to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.
