Kentucky Lake Ski Nuts brave cold New Year's tradition

New Year's Day brings about a host of traditions, superstitions, and resolutions that bring friends and family together.

In Paducah, the Kentucky Lake Ski Nuts have been partaking in a New Year's Day tradition that not many would dare to do in the winter — water skiing.

Each year members of the Kentucky Lake Ski Nuts brave the bitterly cold water, taking turns skiing a lap around a small lake.

This year, the ski nuts celebrated their 48th year skiing on New Year's Day.

Pat Coomes has been water skiing for 50 years, and has been skiing with the ski nuts on New Year's Day for 31 years.

"It's exhilarating. Climbing across the water, towed by the boat, it's a different feeling than anything else you can do," he said.

As part of the tradition, the ski nuts draw numbers to decide the order that they will ski. Once everyone has had their turn, they go inside to enjoy a large meal and watch videos of their New Year's Day performances.

Coomes said some people like him have participated in the tradition for decades, and others join for the same reason — to keep the tradition alive.

"It's a tradition that started before I was a ski nut that I'm helping to carry on," he said. "It's not something that most people would do. It's cold."

The Kentucky Lake Ski Nuts originated in the summer of 1975, and Joe Burkhead has been a member since winter of 1975.

"I'm not technically an original, but there are no originals left, so I'm the closest to it," he said.

Burkhead said Jan. 1, 2025, was one of the coldest days they have braved since they started participating in the tradition.

"One year, we had to ski on the ice. The ice was about six or eight inches thick, and we had four wheelers out, skiing behind four wheelers on the ice," he explained.

Overall, Burkhead said he looks forward to New Year's Day every year for the sense of family and community it brings.

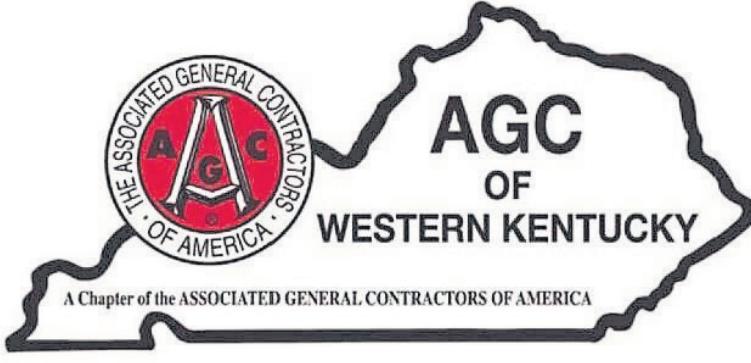

"A lot of us are big on tradition," he said. "We have fun. We'll go inside, and we'll feast out in a little while, and we'll watch some videos of the skiing today."

Coomes emphasized the close knit relationship of the ski nuts.

"We're not all family, but we come together as a family with all the events that we do," he said.

The Kentucky Lake Ski Nuts' hope is for more young people to join so they may maintain and carry on the traditions that started decades ago.

Graves County's Wiggins to pursue electrician career

BY CARLY DICK

NEWS@TIMESLEADER.NET

Gabe Wiggins, a senior at Graves County High School, plans to follow in his father's footsteps and pursue a career as an electrician.

Wiggins was last week's Associated Contractors of Western Kentucky's Technical Centers Student of the Week.

Wiggins' interest in electrical work began at a young age, when he learned about the trade from his dad growing up.

"He's been an electrician for the Union for probably about 15 to 20 years," Wiggins said. "He's shown me the ropes for quite a while and taught me new things about it. That's kind of where I got my start."

Once Wiggins started taking electrical classes at the Mayfield/Graves County Area Technology Center, he said his knowledge of the subject grew exponentially.

"You learn a lot really quickly. Every day you can be doing something different, you'll pick up new things. And once you do it a few times, it comes pretty clearly, if you just pay attention and listen to it," he explained.

Wiggins' teacher at the tech center, Brad Tucker, said he is an outstanding student in class and always willing to learn.

"Gabe is a hard-working young man who is always willing to take on any task that is given to him," Tucker said. "He has a very good mechanical aptitude that translates to him being able to learn new skills quickly, as well as a logical mind that helps him figure out things that he hasn't been taught or seen before."

Wiggins had an electrical apprenticeship at Mid-South Electrical Contracting LLC during the summer of 2024. He said the experience prepared him to enter the electrical field after high school.

"It was really good experience. I learned a lot and picked up a lot of knowledge in the residential side, commercial, industrial, gotten quick about doing certain things," he said.

After graduation, Wiggins wants to pursue a position in the IBEW apprenticeship program to build a successful career as an electrician.
