ADVERTISEMENT FOR PROPERTY SALE AND DEVELOPMENT PLAN – Glasgow, Kentucky

The City of Glasgow is formally advertising the intent to sell approximately 58 acres of property designated for residential development and 21 acres designated for commercial / retail. The subject property is owned by the City of Glasgow and formerly known as the Johnson Farm.

Developers can request an RFP package by contacting Jim McGowan, jim.mcgowan@cityofglasgow.gov or Rob Campbell, rcampbell@qk4.com .

Interested parties will be required to submit a development vision, and financial qualifications describing their plan to develop the property along with the financial viability to complete the development. A preliminary vision of the development is included in the RFP package. This plan was developed by incorporating desired land uses, aesthetics, and development patterns desired for this property, and with consideration of the due diligence completed recently.

Glasgow has documented the property zoning as a Planned Unit Development (PUD) with specific covenants and restrictions which will also be included with the RFP to maintain the intended vision the City has for the property. The rules and requirements of the PUD, CCR's, and the Barren County Planning Commission will be observed with the planned development proposed by the prospective purchaser of the property or properties.

The City purchased the properties with a vision to create attractive, desirable housing to help bolster their ability to attract persons to live in the City of Glasgow as well as to attract companies to locate in Glasgow and Barren County. The City also recognizes the need for commercial development that would support the new housing and amenities in the project area and has dedicated land to that purpose. Interested developers will follow the following schedule for submittal of their proposal.
