According to the press release, the show has drawn sold-out crowds and rave reviews across the country. It brings comedy, nostalgic moments and the same beloved characters fans have adored for deacades, according to the release. The brand-new storyline features Dorothy, Rose, Blance and Sophia in “another unforgettable chapter of friendship and hilarity,” the release stated. The production “allows audiences to relive the heartfelt humor and chemistry of the four ladies who never stopped being friends,” the release stated. Tickets go on sale Friday, May 29, at 10 a.m. VIP experiences will also be available. Visit goldengirlstour.com and the Paramount Theater Ashland online for more information or to purchase tickets. Cost will range from $32.75 to $93 (plus fees).

REGIONAL POETRY

What would Jesus do

If he were you,
 Would he hate, kill or judge
 And would he mock, ridicule or hold a grudge.
 Would he not turn the other cheek
 Would he refuse to help the poor and the meek,
 And would he see evil and danger
 In every person and every stranger.
 Would he be a bigot and a racist
 When he saw different colored faces,
 When he saw the lost at the well

Would he had sent them all to Hell.
 Would he had died just for me
 Since I'm not from his country,
 Would he had hated peoples from a different land
 Even though he created all with his hand.
 Would he had saved me with his salvation
 Or would that only be for his own nation,
 And for the rest of us
 Would we have been ignored and forgotten by Jesus.

Would he love more the rich and the greedy

While hating the poor and the needy,
 And would he bless those doing a killing
 And curse those doing the healing.
 Would he allow the children to suffer without care
 Would he hate the living without hope of prayer,
 What if on the cross
 He then knew that we all were a loss.
 What if had refused to be crucified
 And for me and the world he had never died,
 So, tell me if Jesus where you
 What would he do.
