frame, with the Valkyries up 12-11.

Rowan County started to inch ahead, but a Belle Main kill kickstarted a 7-2 run that put the Valkyries up 24-16.

With their backs against the wall, the Musketeers found a run of their own, reeling off six straight unanswered points, including an ace from Baylee Willis to get within striking distance.

"Volleyball is such a game of momentum," Dixon said. "You get some (points), you lose some, but we talk about how you can't lose any more than two or three in a row. Let them have a couple, they're going to get theirs, but then you've got to go on a run, too. It's just a mindset."

Rowan County made an early deposit of points to start the first set, which paid dividends by the end of the frame.

Greenup County had to play from behind for the entire opening stanza after giving up a 6-0 run to start the match.

The Musketeers mounted a late rally to pull within one at 19-18. Greenup County benefited from kills by Lucy Roy, Kaylee Braden, and Hailey Dillow.

Ella Breeze bookended the first set with kills, scoring the first and last points of the frame to put the Valkyries up 1-0 in the match.

Rowan County fell behind early in the second set, but this time found a 15-2 run to shoot past the Musketeers.

That run, highlighted by a pair of back-to-back aces from Breeze, put the Valkyries up 15-8, an advantage they'd need to stave off another late-set push from Greenup County.

Roy delivered a hat trick of kills, helping trim the Musketeers' deficit to just 19-17.

That was as close as Greenup County could get. The Valkyries finished off the second frame 25-21 with a pair of kills from Mains and Breeze, respectively.

Dixon hoped the experience of the night's matchup, along with the growth throughout the season, carried over to the title showdown with Ashland.

It did.

"Getting back to the championship game has been our goal all year long," Dixon said. "Last year, we were a good team, but we still had some underclassmen, and I think mentally that got the best of us. Plus, Ashland was a great, great team.

"But this year, we played Ashland at home and took them to five sets. I think our confidence is there. They believe they can win. Again, Ashland's a great team, but I think we're a great team, too. We can say that confidently this year. I'm really excited, and they're ready to go."
