America has the potential to lead the world in digital assets but only if we protect what made our markets strong in the first place: trust, transparency, accountability, and national security. Without proper safeguards, foreign adversaries—including cartels, terrorists in Iran and criminals in North Korea—will continue to target our country's global standing and scam and defraud the everyday investors that uphold our markets. If these investors lose trust in the financial system, we risk forfeiting digital asset innovation to our adversaries.

A strong market structure bill would promote innovation while preserving the tools needed to stop criminal activity, protect investors, and defend U.S. interests, which is why Congress must reject the CLARITY Act.

Lawmakers have a responsibility to get this right and protect the integrity of our markets, defend our national security, and ensure digital asset innovation is built on trust.

Thomas Loving is a 50+ year Kentucky law enforcement veteran who currently serves as director of the Bowling Green-Warren County Drug Task Force as well as executive director of the Kentucky Narcotic Officers' Association.

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked (▼) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥ RATHIE becomes WATER or EARTH or HEART). Fit each string's word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.
