

SESSION

• House Bill 869 positions Kentucky as a leader in the emerging alternative aviation fuel industry by establishing a nonrefundable tax credit for producers. This forward-looking policy creates new markets for agricultural products, attracts investment, and strengthens the state's role in a growing energy sector.

• Senate Bill 155 enhances animal health protections by giving the Commissioner of Agriculture, in consultation with the State Veterinarian, the authority to declare animal health emergencies — ensuring swift action to protect livestock, poultry, and the broader agricultural industry.

• House Bill 56 modernizes regulatory processes by updating inspection requirements and removing outdated statutes, allowing KDA to operate more efficiently and better serve Kentucky producers. "This session was about more than funding — it was about building momentum for Kentucky agriculture," Shell said. "We're creating new markets, investing in our farmers, strengthening rural communities, and to lead our economy for generations to come."
