The food drive coincides with the Cougars' Spirit Week and annual homecoming game. This year the effort is Sept. 21-25 with the Cougars hosting Barren County for homecoming on Sept. 25.

"The drive will end the evening of the 25th at the homecoming game itself," said association President Roger Lush. "We'll have a collection point at the entrance gate to the field for any extra items that fans may want to donate."

The program started in 2019 and, Lush said, at the encouragement of head football coach Bryan Jones two years later, student bodies at numerous Grayson County schools, churches and other entities became part of the drive to collect canned and non-perishable food items to aid community members.

Among the recent participants in the program are Grayson County High School; H.W. Wilkey Elementary School; Lawler Elementary School; Clarkson Elementary School; Caneyville Elementary School; the Tri-Parish Catholic Churches of Grayson County; St. Joseph Catholic Church; The Restoration Place; Bluegrass Land Title; and Farmer's Feed Mill Restaurant.

The GCHS student body led the way early in the donation effort, however, Wilkey and Lawler Elementary recently have had the largest amount of donations.

Lush said there could be a traveling trophy in the near future that goes to the school, church or business that collects the most food each year.

This year, he said, high school graduating classes also are competing against each other with the winning class receiving a class ice cream social.

The last year for the drive was 2024 and the effort was put on hold last year.

In the first year of the "Tackle Hunger Food Drive," 373 pounds of food was collected, and in 2024 that total jumped to 2,921 pounds, Lush said. The largest donation year was in 2022 when 4,148 pounds of food was collected, he said.

According to a recent news release, 1 in 7 adults and 1 in 4 children have food insecurities in Grayson County.
