What Green-Taylor Water upgrades mean for customers

The Green-Taylor Water District recently announced major changes that will be of benefit to customers. The company is transitioning to new meters with plans to install 500 of those by the end of 2026.

- * customers will get more accurate statements that will help discover leaks or excessive water usage;
- * the transition means the district will change from a customer-read system to an employee-read system. This will result in customers paying for the exact amount of water that is used each month;
- * the new meters are part of an Advanced Metering Infrastructure (AMI) that will send readings to the district's office every four hours and will not require some to read the meters every month;
- * once all new meters are installed, customers will not have to worry about excessive water usage (i.e., leaks) because the new system will notify the district with an alarm if there is excessive usage by a customer;
- * the company will keep customers up to date on its Facebook Page, will continue to have information through the local media and will send all customers a letter along with the bills that are mailed;
- * none of the upgraded changes will result in an increase in customer costs. The district already had money on-hand to purchase the supplies associated with the new system.

The district asks for customers to be patient and cooperative as it incorporates the new system into the operation.

The Green-Taylor Water District was established in 1964 and currently has a base of more than 6,700 customers with 5,500 having active meters.

Vote

Some school board races are being contested this year, depending on the district.

According to Baker, Green County has a total of 8,543 people who are registered to vote. Of that total number, 6,092 are Republicans and 1,832 are registered as Democrats.

"We have several independent registered voters along with Libertarian registered voters," Baker said.

The online absentee portal is now open, according to Baker. That portal closes Oct. 20, 2026.

"People may go online to govvote.ky.gov to request an absentee ballot be mailed to them or they can call my office at 270-932-5386 until October 20 to request a ballot be mailed to them," Baker said.

Several political signs may be seen around the city and also in the precincts in which school board members will be elected.
