federal district court.

In 2024, the General Assembly unanimously passed SB 249, sponsored by Sen. Lindsey Tichenor (R- Smithfield). An anonymous registered sex offender challenged the law and sued Daviess County, John Burlew to prevent enforcement.

“Kentucky’s leaders came together in a bipartisan way to protect our children online. I’m grateful to Attorney General Coleman and his staff, in particular Jack Heyburn, for taking up this fight on my behalf to keep kids safe. I’m thankful this important law may now go into full effect,” said Daviess County Attorney Burlew.

“As a mother and lawmaker, my priority is keeping children safe. The purpose of SB 249 is to stop convicted sex offenders from hiding who they are online and using social media to target kids,” said Senator Tichenor. “With the court’s decision, SB 249 is now fully in effect to further protect children online and give families peace of mind. I’m grateful for the collaboration between the Attorney General’s Office and General Assembly in keeping Kentucky kids safe.”

Defending SB249 is the latest effort by Attorney General Coleman to keep child predators away from kids online. The Attorney General also launched lawsuits against TikTok for its addictive harm to youth and the online gaming website Roblox for permitting an online environment for child exploitation.
