replace and upgrade the water district's intake structures. This investment is in addition to the $9.256 million secured by Senator McConnell and an additional $6.5 million in state funding that was secured by State Representative Michael Meredith. I look forward to seeing this funding directly benefit the lives of hardworking Kentuckians well into the future!

Traveling the Second District

I recently stopped by Potter Gray Elementary School in Bowling Green to discuss the separation of powers and the role of Congress. This was an impressive group of future leaders!

I had a great visit with the team at Scotty's Contracting and Stone. We discussed the work Congress is doing to invest in American infrastructure in our community!

In January, members of my team joined USDA Rural Development Kentucky State Director Travis Burton for the announcement of a nearly $500,000 grant for Med Center Health to increase access to telehealth in rural communities. I look forward to seeing this funding positively impact the lives of Kentuckians!

It was great to visit with the Meade County Farm Bureau and discuss the work Congress is doing to help farmers recover from a hard year and how we can support them in the future!

I had a productive conversation with emergency management and local leaders in Meade County about their ongoing work to get the county back open after the recent winter storm. We also discussed the continued recovery efforts from last year's flooding. Thanks for having me!

Last week, I made a pit stop at Greenwood Ford to talk about the work I'm doing as the Chairman of the House Committee on Energy and Commerce to streamline costly regulations and improve vehicle safety for auto manufacturers. We also talked about the work Congress is doing to invest in our highway infrastructure.

This week, I authored an essay for the Orin G. Hatch Foundation about the work I am doing as the Chairman of the House Committee on Energy and Commerce to ensure America wins the race for AI long into the future.

When we approach AI legislation, our committee has three pillars that guide our approach: dominance, deployment, and safeguards. But, for the United States to be dominant in AI, we must be the ones to actually develop and deploy these new technologies at scale, or else we risk an authoritarian regime, like China, leading the rest of the century. That cannot happen.

When I talk with business leaders, they tell me we have the brainpower and the capital necessary to compete. However, we still need to increase our energy production to meet rising electricity demand, and we need to ensure our regulatory environment is structured to meet this moment.

The strong U.S. economy and our workers are the greatest assets we have. As long as we choose to embrace those strengths instead of holding ourselves back, America will continue to succeed. Our leadership has undoubtedly made the world stronger and more prosperous in recent decades, and we don't plan on stopping now.

How Can I Help

My office and I are happy to help you. My constituent services team can help provide assistance with a variety of federal agencies including the Department of Veterans Affairs, Social Security, Post Office, and more. Call 270-842-9896 or 202-225-3501 to contact my office.

Sincerely,
 Brett Guthrie
 Member of Congress

Summer Meal Program Training Offered as KDE Prepares for 2026 Season

BY JEFF JOBE

JOBEnews.com

As summer approaches each year, the end of the school calendar brings a hidden challenge for many Kentucky families: reliable access to nutritious meals for children once school cafeterias close.

To address that need, the Kentucky Department of Education (KDE) is gearing up for the 2026 Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) and is calling on schools, nonprofits and local organizations to step forward as community sponsors. The federally supported program, administered in Kentucky by KDE in partnership with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, provides free meals to children and teens in qualifying low-income areas throughout the summer months.

Across the state, meal service sites are commonly established in familiar, accessible locations such as schools, parks, community centers, housing complexes and faith-based facilities. These sites play a vital role in helping ensure children continue to receive healthy meals when school is not in session.

KDE officials say a wide range of organizations are eligible to sponsor the program, including public school districts, nonprofit schools, residential summer camps, local and county governments, colleges and universities, and other nonprofit organizations.

In preparation for the 2026 season, KDE will host a series of free training sessions statewide aimed at potential sponsors and supporting partners. The training is open not only to organizations interested in sponsoring meal sites, but also to health inspectors, auditors, company representatives and community partners who support summer feeding efforts.
