Sheriff Wilson also noted that property tax collection begins November 2.

Fiscal Court also voted to cancel its October 27 meeting because the state will be using the courthouse that day for a driver’s license pop-up event.

The next Hart County Fiscal Court meeting is scheduled for November 10 at 9 a.m.

Clerk Joy Bennett said helps tremendously, especially for events like the Heritage Festival.

Regarding Ordinance 2026-05 Appointing Board Members, Mayor Curry requested to appoint Pat Tucker, Teddy Church, and Rick Woodard, as well as himself, to four-year terms on the Horse Cave Housing Authority Board, expiring December 31, 2030.

Jon Buckingham resigned from his position on the Housing Authority Board, with his term previously set to expire on December 31, 2027.

Chief Heather Childress reported on 344 police calls for the month of September.

“The Heritage festival went great, and my guys covered for me,” she said, as she thanked Dart and DTX transport for the pizzas donated to the police department.

Childress explained that three Kentucky women represented the state in Bali for the International Association of Women in Policing conference.

She also discussed how deeply the loss of Trooper Hayden Phillips has been felt throughout the department.

“I can’t thank my guys enough for what they do every day,” she added. “I hear all the time, ‘This is just small town Horse Cave.’ There is no small town anywhere this can’t happen in.”

Childress also addressed concerns with FLOCK cameras, emphasizing that they are only accessed for active agency cases or official alerts.

“If we don’t have a case we need it on, we have not accessed it,” said Childress, pointing out that while the technology was vital in helping track down Trooper Phillips’ killer, rumors of casual police surveillance are entirely false.

Mayor Curry added in remembrance of Phillips, “He was always so nice and so personable, and that’s the thing I want to
