Central City Elementary

Shoutout to our Bus Riders of the Week! These students are showing what it means to be part of our #RisingTide by demonstrating respect, responsibility, and safety on the bus each day. From following directions to being kind to others, they're helping make every ride a great one! Keep up the great work—we are proud of you!

From the depths of the ocean to the airwaves! Our 4th graders got a master class in podcasting today to help them share the heart-wrenching (and heart-mending) story of Edward Tulane. Huge thanks to Mrs. Carla Embry of the Muhlenberg Moment podcast for teaching us that every story - and every voice - matters.

Bremen Elementary

We had a great schoolwide trip to Mesker Zoo! Our students represented our school well. Thank you to our staff for helping everything run smoothly and to our parents for your support. It was a fun day for everyone!

Kaitlyn Green continued her streak of winning the Jim Claypool Water Conservation Art Contest for the 3rd year in a row. This year, she advanced to the State Competition, where she received 3rd place on March 16. The awards banquet was held at the Kentucky Castle. Congratulations Kaitlyn!! She is our first Spartan to place in this art contest at the State level!!!

First graders learned all about Agriculture! They are incubating eggs, planting seeds, and they made home-made butter today!

Greenville Elementary

We also appreciate MCHS Principal Mrs. Nika'

Ball and Ag Science Teacher Mrs. Kirsten Oates for allowing MCHS students to be the voice for the future of agriculture. These students invested in the future and helped connect these young learners to agriculture in a meaningful way. This is how we grow the next generation—through hands-
