Looking back to Nov. 5, 2018

Written by Christy Hoots

The following information was entered into the Nov. 5, 2018, edition of The Ledger Independent:

Mystery dinner provides murder, cheesecake

AUGUSTA — Murder and cheesecake lured more than 90 people to the Clooney Community Center for a murder mystery dinner based around the Golden Girls show.

The dinner was hosted by the Experience Augusta, Ky organization.

Guests were invited to attend a cocktail hour at 5 p.m., followed by dinner and a mystery in which the audience would have a chance to guess the murderer. Some guests decided to dive deep into the theme of the dinner, including three women from Northern Kentucky, who dressed in full Golden Girls costumes.

Casey Lee, of Taylor Mill, said she and two friends had driven from Northern Kentucky because they heard about the dinner on social media and loved to immerse herself in the show.

"This is a themed event and whenever I go to a themed event I always go for it-I go all in," she said. "We found out about this on Facebook and I knew I had to come down. We were a little disappointed that more people weren't dressed up."

Nancy Parsons said she also enjoyed dressing up for the event.

"I love dressing up," she said. "If there is an option for it, I'm going to take it."

Irene Hartley said she was there to enjoy herself.

"We're here to have fun and just make it the best time we can," she said. "It's just more fun that way."

All three said they enjoyed the dinner and show, but were surprised at the ending.

Actresses dressed as characters from Golden Girls present a murder mystery dinner in Augusta on Saturday.

"It wasn't what I thought it would be," Hartley said. "But, it was fun. We enjoyed it."

Another table was filled with women wearing shirts with the names of the characters from Golden Girls, Blanche, Sophia, Rose and Dorothy.

Casey Peoples of Falmouth said she enjoyed watching the show.

"We had so much fun," she said. "We always wanted to go to a murder mystery and we enjoyed it."

Bridget Browning, also of Falmouth, expressed similar sentiments."

"I didn't know what to expect, but it was cute," she said. "It was a lot of fun."

The show began at 6 p.m. with the first portion of the skit, where one of the four women found a dead body. At the end of the first skit, dinner was served, along with the revealing of the first clue.

A second portion of the skit went into the investigation of the death. It was followed by a dessert that included cheesecake and the second and third clues.

After dessert, each table was invited to make a guess about the killer.

The show ended with a sing-a-long of the Golden Girls theme song.

The actresses in the play were Elizabeth Molloy, Lauren Woodiwiss, Chelsea Overman and Cat Davis with the Unique Event Productions, headed by Emily Widolff.

Widolff wrote the show.

"It's a dinner theater style murder mystery, so it's not a super long play, but what it is-they're watching kind of what they would with a Golden Girls show, but with a murder mystery twist to it."

Widolff said the Golden Girls show, for anyone who was not familiar with it, is a female driven comedy.

"It's comedy," she said. "It's a female driven comedy-a little slapstick and sharp wit, especially from the Sophia character."

Karen Earick, with Experience Augusta, KY said the organization decided to bring the actresses down after her daughter, Elizabeth Earick heard about it.

"Elizabeth and Emily were friends and Elizabeth saw one of the shows at the Newport Syndicate," she said. "I didn't realize there was such a following for the show, but it's popular and we thought we would invite them down to do a show here."

According to Earick, there were 88 tickets for sale and all sold out before the Nov. 3 showing. A second showing will be held on Dec. 1.

The tickets for the Dec. 1 show can be found on Eventbrite.

"We're very pleased with the turnout and we're hoping for a similar turnout in December," she said. "Experience Augusta, Ky is trying to put on several events throughout the year."
