TVA reports higher revenue, sales growth in first quarter

BY PAXTON MEDIA GROUP

The Tennessee Valley Authority reported $3 billion in operating revenues on about 40 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity sales for the three months ending Dec. 31, with revenue up 4.4% compared to the same period last year, according to a news release from TVA.

Electricity sales increased about 4% year over year, driven primarily by weather impacts and growth in the data processing, hosting and related services sector, the release said.

TVA President and CEO Don Moul said in the release that the results reflect both financial performance and TVA's role in national energy and technology growth.

Fuel and purchased power expenses rose $25 million compared to the same period last year, primarily due to higher market prices and increased demand, the release said. Operating and maintenance expenses declined $56 million, driven mainly by Inflation Reduction Act tax credits recorded during the quarter.

Depreciation and amortization expense increased $14 million, while interest expense rose $29 million, reflecting higher balances and rates on long-term debt, according to the release.

TVA reported net income of $266 million for the quarter, up from $125 million a year earlier, primarily due to higher operating revenues.

"TVA delivered a solid start to fiscal year 2026, supported by growing power demand and financial discipline," TVA Chief Financial Officer Tom Rice said in the release.

The release said TVA continues to invest in new generation and transmission as part of what officials described as one of the most significant investment periods in the utility's history.

House approves bill that would allow smoking in cigar bars

BY LEGISLATIVE RESEARCH COMMISSION

FRANKFORT — A bill that would allow certain businesses to operate as a cigar bar advanced off the House floor on Tuesday.

Rep. Chris Lewis, R-Louisville, said House Bill 194 creates "a narrow exemption" in the law that would allow the smoking of cigars in what the bill defines as a cigar bar.

"If you don't want to be exposed to cigar smoke in a public place where smoke-free laws currently exist, nothing in this bill changes your ability to maintain that separation," Lewis said on the House floor.

Under HB 194, a business would only be permitted to operate as a cigar bar if 25% of the business's gross annual income is derived from the sale of cigars, pipe tobacco, related accessories or the rental of humidors. Additionally, the business must hold a valid quota retail drink license.

The bill would give local governments the ability to enact an ordinance to require cigar bars receive a special permit to operate. Local governments may also exempt cigar bars from the quota retail drink license requirement.

To address health concerns, Lewis said HB 194 would require cigar bars to provide a smoke-free location for deliveries and signage warning potential customers of exposure to cigar and pipe tobacco smoke.

Rep. Chris Lewis, R-Louisville, speaks on House Bill 194, which would allow cigar bars in Kentucky, on the House floor.

Cigar bars that share a physical wall or a common, enclosed air space with any other structure would be required to implement measures to ensure smoke does not pass into smoke-free areas, Lewis added.

The bill also would prohibit anyone under the age of 21 from entering the business.

Rep. Adrielle Camuel, D-Lexington, asked Lewis to clarify how HB 194 might impact local smoke-free ordinances.

Lewis said there is nothing in the legislation that would allow smoking in bars, restaurants, bowling alleys or anywhere public where current smoke-free ordinances are in place.

"This doesn't prevent any municipality from creating a new smoke-free ordinance, but it would not allow them to ban a cigar bar," he added.

The House voted 69-24 to send HB 194 to the Senate.

Rep. Anne Gay Donworth, D-Lexington, said she was voting "no" on the legislation because her district is against it.

"I do want to thank the bill's sponsor. I think this is a much better version than what we passed last year, having the 25% margin for cigar sales," Donworth said. "I am a no purely because my district has a very, very, very popular indoor smoking ban."

Rep. Al Gentry, D-Louisville, voted "yes" on HB 194. He said although he isn't a smoker, he supports others' right to do it.

"I voted 'yes' on the bill because I am a proponent of freedom and accountability," he said. "Cigar smoking is legal, so if we want to have a confined space for those individuals to come together and do that, that is their choice."

Affordable housing bill passes

BY LEGISLATIVE RESEARCH COMMISSION

FRANKFORT — A bill that would enable religious institutions to build small-scale affordable housing units advanced from the House Local Government Committee on Tuesday.

Rep. Michael Sarge Pollock, R-Campbellsville, is the primary sponsor of the bipartisan legislation, House Bill 333.

Pollock said the Sisters of Loretto, a Catholic women's organization, reached out to him and Sen. Jimmy Higdon, R-Lebanon, about a plan to renovate an empty structure into short-term housing.

"The conversation created an opportunity to share their story, and their input made it clear there is both a need and opportunity here in Kentucky," Pollock added.

Under HB 333, faith-based organizations would be allowed to build small-scale affordable housing up to 24 units on the parcel or contiguous parcel owned by the religious institution within a half mile of the development.

The legislation "also ensures housing remains affordable for at least 15 years," Pollock said.

Pollock said the legislation would implement additional safeguards to prevent clustering or large-scale development on properties that are owned prior to Jan. 1, 2021.

Additionally, HB 333 would expand a religious institution's ability to operate modest-sized homeless shelters, including cooling or warming centers, in industrial zoned areas, Pollock added. These facilities would be required to follow health and safety regulations.

Pollock told the committee the bill matters because homelessness is a real issue in Kentucky, and more affordable housing options can help.

"Faith communities in Kentucky are eager to play a constructive role in addressing homelessness and housing affordability," he said.

Rep. Sarah Stalker, D-Louisville, is a co-sponsor of the legislation. During a discussion on the bill, Stalker said she is under the impression the legislation will have a positive impact on the property tax base.

"I want to make sure that other folks are clear, and that I am clear on this, that the property tax base will only be impacted in a positive manner because of this bill," she said. "Meaning that if somebody had a building they were no longer using, or sitting on a church property — they were not paying taxes on that. Whereas if they renovate that and now we have affordable housing, they will be paying into that the tax base. Is that correct?"

Pollock said Stalker was correct.

The House Local Government Committee voted unanimously to send HB 333 to the House floor for consideration.
