

PGA Tour drops Napa, Mississippi from schedule

BY DOUG FERGUSON
AP GOLF WRITER

The PGA Tour released its FedEx Cup Fall schedule of eight tournaments — one that moves from the Spring — but loses two events, including one in Mississippi that began the year before the modern tour began.

The fall will include new tournaments in Asheville, North Carolina, and Austin, Texas.

They replace the Sanderson Farms Championship in Mississippi that had been played every year since 1968, and the Procore Championship in Napa, California, a tournament that dates to the start of the FedEx Cup era in 2007.

The title sponsorship in Mississippi was not renewed, and Sanderson Farms extended its support an additional year for 2025. The tournament began in 1968 as the Magnolia Classic and had gone through five title sponsorships over the years.

Procore signed up for a two-year deal in the summer of 2024, the lead event for the fall. This year at Silverado Resort had an unusually strong field as the U.S. Ryder Cup team was looking for somewhere to play to avoid having a month off. Scottie Scheffler won the Procore Championship against a field that included all but two players from the Ryder Cup team.

The Presidents Cup, which doesn't garner as much attention as the Ryder Cup, will be Sept. 24-27 at Medinah outside Chicago. The FedEx Cup Fall starts the week before at the Biltmore Championship Asheville in North Carolina.

The other new tournament, previously announced, is the Good Good Championship in Austin, Texas, which last held a PGA Tour-sanctioned event in 2023 with the Dell Match Play, the last of the World Golf Championships series.

There was some minor shifting in the schedule. The Bank of Utah Championship will be Oct. 1-4, a week before the PGA Tour goes to Japan.

Utah was held the week after the Baycurrent Classic in Japan on the 2025 schedule

Also, the Mexico Open has moved from the end of the West Coast Swing in February to a new fall date, allowing the tour to create a two-week swing through Mexico with VidantaWorld Mexico Open in Vallarta on Oct. 29 to Nov. 1, followed by the World Wide Technology Championship in Los Cabos at the tip of Baja California.

Los Cabos is 350 miles away from Vallarta across the Gulf of California.

The tour will have a week off after Japan, and then finish by going to Bermuda, two weeks in Mexico, Texas and then finish again at the RSM Classic along the Georgia coast.

The 2026 season will feature 45 tournaments, four of them held opposite either majors or the signature events. The FedEx Cup Fall is for players trying to finish among the top 100 to secure full cards for the following year, or to earn two-year exemptions by winning.

Hawks send high-scoring guard to wizards

BY TIM REYNOLDS
AP BASKETBALL WRITER

Trae Young's tenure in Atlanta is over with the Hawks agreeing to trade the high-scoring and frequently criticized guard to the Washington Wizards for a package including veteran CJ McCollum.

Corey Kispert also is headed from Washington to Atlanta.

NBA reporter Marc Stein was first to disclose that the sides were closing in on a deal and ESPN first reported that the agreement was in place.

The Wizards held McCollum and Kispert out of their loss at Philadelphia on Wednesday night, and Young was on the bench in street clothes for Atlanta. He left the bench area in the fourth quarter, then returned and left again for the final time with about 30 seconds left — slapping hands with a few fans as he headed toward the locker room.

He leaves Atlanta as the Hawks' career leader in assists (passing Doc Rivers) and 3-pointers (passing Mookie Blaylock). He's fourth on Atlanta's free throws list and sixth in points.

Young is 10th in points, 12th in points per game, first in assists and first in assists per game since entering the NBA as the No. 5 pick in the 2018 draft.

He is one of five players to rank in the top 10 in both points and assists since he entered the league; the others are Denver's Nikola Jokic, the Los Angeles Lakers' Luka Doncic, the Los Angeles Clippers' James Harden and Phoenix's Devin Booker.

Jokic has won a championship and is a three-time MVP. Doncic is considered an MVP candidate, Harden is a member of the 75th anniversary team, and Booker is a two-time Olympic gold medalist.

would give players around 30% of the gross revenue. The player's percentage would be from money generated before expenses for the first year and teams would have a $10.5 million salary cap to sign players. Under the union's proposal, the revenue sharing percent would go up slightly each year.

UNION WANTS EXPANSION FEES INCLUDED

The union feels that the $750 million in expansion fees that the league just received with the addition of Cleveland, Detroit and Philadelphia by 2030 should be considered revenue and included in projections. The league says that the money actually goes to all the current teams that were in place before expansion to make up for the future money they'll be losing by dividing the total revenue by more franchises.

Other major sports leagues like the NBA, NHL and NFL don't include expansion fees in their revenue-sharing structures. Major League Baseball's salary structure is not tied to its revenue, so expansion fees don't matter.

LEAGUE WANTS PLAYERS TO PAY FOR HOUSING

The league has proposed making players pay for their housing instead of having teams continue to incur the costs. With the potential new minimum salary at approximately $250,000, the WNBA has said that like most every other pro league, players should pay for their own housing.

The union's stance is that teams should continue to pay for players' housing.
