that used molten lead, tin and other alloys to form the letters.

An examination of the contaminated soil indicated the lead exposure ranged from more than 2 foot deep in certain areas of the property to as little as a few inches in others. Currently the contaminated soil has been excavated and moved into in a large, tarp-covered pile while awaiting transport to the landfill.

The mitigation process was facilitated through a $40,000 Kentucky Environmental and Energy Cabinet grant sought on behalf of the county by the Kentuckiana Regional Planning & Development Agency (KIPDA).

Once the contaminated soil has been removed, fresh soil will be replaced, grass will be planted and a fence will be installed around the property.

At various times in recent years the county has considered selling the building or dedicating its use for some historic application. Judge-Executive John Ogburn said there are no definite plans for the building at this time.
