

Hard work pays off for MW Colts 8U cheer squad

MOUNT WASHINGTON – How do you overcome disappointment?

You get back in the gym and work hard.

That is the story of the Mount Washington Colts 8U cheerleading program.

After failing to qualify for the 2025 America's Cheerleading Cup National Championship, the team put in countless hours to get better.

Starting last October, the team was busy, competing in eight competitions and a few virtual events. They earned the right to make the trip to the recent national competition in Orlando, Fla.

Guaranteed two performances, the team nailed both, performing their best routines of the season, according to coaches Morgan Bernard and Victoria Bobrow.

In both, the team scored a Hitting Zero, which means it had no deductions on either performance.

At the end of the first day of competition, the Colts were in third place by less than one point. The following day, a few adjustments were made and it resulted in a final showing in second place.

"While we didn't win first place, we were very excited to finish second and move up after day one," said Bernard.

To accomplish the national runner-up position, Bernard said that the squad's willingness to learn was the key.

"It was a lot of these girls' first time being on a competitive cheer team and they all grew so much this season," said Bernard.

Team members included: Adley Wallace, Ava Isaac, Avery Webb, Carley Garrard, Charleigh Torres, Emersyn Wicker, Everlee Potts, Fayelynn Wood, Harper Jaggars, Jonnie Bernard, Kylie Bloom, Maggie Dever, Marissa Elmore, Mila-Paige Vandermolen, Millie Roberts, Nora Downey and Sydney Isaac.
