

SPRING

and younger players taking part.)

North Bullitt posted a 10-9 record last year and were ranked third in the Sixth Region RPI numbers. That team had three seniors but several of the underclassman from that group opted to do other things this spring. Bruner said that only four players were part of competitive 'travel' ball teams, a number that has to increase.

The one position that does have experience is in the circle where a pair of seniors, Amree Hammons and Kylie McRoberts, both have varsity experience. Hammons shared much of the pitching duties last season with Gabby Coy who graduated. McRoberts transferred into the program late in the process last season and only played a few games.

McRoberts has already signed with Georgetown University while Hammons recently committed to Union College.

Hammons was not available for the quickly rescheduled game with Bullitt East so McRoberts started that game. McRoberts also pitched the easy win over Butler, but Hammons did pitch over the weekend.

A third candidate to pitch this spring is freshman Annabelle Price.

"I am very confident putting any of the three of them out there," Bruner said last week. "Those are our most experienced players. They will have to play even if not in the circle. They can step in and play nicely."

North Bullitt's top middle school age player last season would have been the catcher this season, but she is now at Ballard. That opens the door for freshman Kaigen Kamber to be behind the plate. Her background is more as a third baseman, but she is stepping up to fill that important role.

As the season progresses, Bruner may use sophomore Tori Murphy or senior Ava Kenney behind the plate. Kenney has been a basketball player, but she came out for the softball team this spring and will be asked to help right out of the gate.

With new players and a new coach, there will be a lot of experimentation and the lineup may look a lot different in May than it does in March.

At first base, senior Paige Brooks does have some experience at the spot. McRoberts can also fill that position as can sophomore Kylie Graham or junior Madeline Whiteside. The other player on the right side of the infield could well be junior Marley Hughes, but if she is not pitching Hammons could fill that spot as could 8th-grader Mya Davis or even 7th-grader Maci Seeders.

At shortstop, Bruner will be looking at Price to fill that spot with Hammons, Seeders and freshman Kendall Stevens also in the mix. At third base, Whiteside will get the first look but Graham and Kamber could also see time at the hot corner.

In the outfield, Bruner feels that he has some options. Kenney will be in the mix for playing time as will sophomore Abby Harris. Depending on who is playing an infield spot, Stevens could be in the outfield as could McRoberts, Brooks, Seeders or Davis.

Bruner is projecting to dress

15 players for varsity contests early in the season.

Next Three Games After the loss to Bullitt East on Wednesday, North Bullitt bounced back and had three much better results to close out the week.

On Friday, the green and gold were back at home and crushed visiting Butler 15-0. The Bearettes reached the semifinals of the Sixth Region tournament a year ago. North Bullitt only batted twice in this game, scoring eight runs in the first inning and seven more in the second.

McRoberts pitched all three innings for the Lady Eagles, allowing just one hit. The senior did not walk a batter and recorded six strikeouts as she needed just 36 pitches for the win.

McRoberts also had the only extra base hit in the game, a double. North Bullitt was helped along as Butler used four pitches who walked nine batters. McRoberts was the only player with two hits as the Eagles only had seven hits despite the big score. Hammons, Kenney, Whiteside and Hughes each scored twice.

On Saturday, the Lady Eagles went on the road for the first time and played two games in the Warhawks Triangle at Great Crossing High School. The green and gold suffered two losses, but both games came down to a single run.
