

Green will take talents to Brescia

HEBRON ESTATES – Jeremiah Green was a standout athlete throughout his career.

Basketball and baseball were sports the son of Felicia and Jerry Green participated in his entire life.

But it was during his sophomore year that Green decided it was time to concentrate on one sport. And that sport was baseball.

Green will take his talents to Brescia University in Owensboro this fall.

“This college really attracted me due to the smaller setting,” said Green, who plans to major in becoming a physical therapist.

While playing just his senior season at North Bullitt, Green contributed on the basketball court but was a standout on the diamond.

He played second base and also got to spend time pitching. During his freshman season at Brescia, Green believes he will get an opportunity at playing time at both positions.

Throughout his career, Green credited his coaches and his family, including siblings Mayce and AJ, for his success.

His favorite memory was throwing a no-hitter in his first varsity career start on the mound.

Zion Sanders Craig to play rugby at UL

MOUNT WASHINGTON – Zion Sanders Craig had played basketball and football throughout the early stages of life.

But a funny happened along the way.

The son of Devon Sanders Craig and Taray Sanders Craig found out that there might another sport in his future.

During his senior year at Bullitt East, he still played football but he really found his niche in rugby.

He recently signed to play Club Rugby at the University of Louisville.

Attending the University of Louisville was always a goal. Playing a sport at his dream school is just icing on top of the cake.

He got a call from the Cardinal staff after watching him play club rugby with the Louisville Crash.

Zion had also looked at attending Georgetown College, Thomas More College and Franklin College before getting the offer from the University of Louisville.

“Rugby has become my favorite sport,” he said at the signing.

While playing rugby is the next path, Craig still enjoyed the 71-0 victory in football over Franklin County last season.

He thanked Corey Miller for pushing him at every practice and pulling for him behind the scenes.

Playing time as a freshman is something he thinks he can accomplish.

NB's Lipkin takes running skills to Asbury

HEBRON ESTATES – Running has been part of Jeremiah Lipkin's life since middle school.

And now, he will be running a little longer as the son of Jake and Michelle Lipkin will attend Asbury University.

The North Bullitt graduate will run both cross country and track, something he has done over his final three years as an Eagle.

Starting his running career in middle school, it was his sophomore year that he added cross country to his portfolio.

With a former teammate attending Asbury, Lipkin knew that the program was a strong cross country team.

He also liked the communications department.

Lipkin had considered attending the University of Louisville but opted for the school in Lexington.
