

Special offering set for churches to help Trinity rebuild

BOB DEMAREE
PAXTON NEWS SERVICE

MADISON, Ind. — Churches across Jefferson County and the surrounding region are being invited to join together on Sunday, Aug. 2, for Steeples United for Trinity, a community-wide special offering to support the rebuilding of Trinity United Methodist Church in downtown Madison following the devastating fire that destroyed much of the historic church on May 11.

The initiative calls on congregations of every denomination to receive a special offering during their worship services as a visible expression of Christian unity and community support.

Sarah Fischmer and Susan Ohlendorf are co-chairs of the Steeple United for Trinity committee. "Church buildings are more than bricks and mortar — they are places where generations have gathered to worship, celebrate, grieve, and serve," organizers said. "When one church suffers such a tremendous loss, the entire faith community has an opportunity to come alongside them with generosity and love."

All funds collected through the Aug. 2 offering will be sent to Madison

Presbyterian Church, which has volunteered to serve as the collection point for the effort. The church will then present the combined donations to Trinity

United Methodist Church to assist with its rebuilding efforts.
