

Getting stronger and better

Hello everyone.
Sorry you have not heard much from me since July 22 — that was when Duane had his open heart surgery.

The heart has done well, but since the surgery we had two more hospitalizations. One was for continued low-grade temps and the other was a passing out spell as we went for a doctor visit.

We have been home now for two weeks.

Yeah. He is doing really good. He has started cardiac rehab and went to church for the first time since the open heart surgery. I think we are finally heading toward getting stronger and better.

Keep those prayers coming our way. We are so grateful and blessed to have so many people who love us and believe in our Lord Jesus Christ.

Well, the Full Gospel Tabernacle had their annual car show this past Saturday. What a blessed wonderful day!

The cars kept on pouring in to support the church and all that our family had been through. There were 75 car entries and about 80 cars that came to the show.

The great support made this car show a great financial support toward our annual food box ministry. Thanks to that support and all the help of the church members and youth, the need was met for another year.

A special thanks to the sponsors and donors.

I know it has been a tough few months, but I can tell you that if you have a need all you have to do is ask God to help you.

COMING HOME ONE MORE TIME

Well folks ... I'm sitting here after a supper of leftovers from our Sunday Homecoming at Paint Lick Christian Church and feeling stuffed.

We were blessed with a great turnout of old members — and some new people too — for Sunday services. I was chosen to do scripture just before the beautiful music from Rachel Cole and Doug Lamb.

My what a team!
I enjoyed every minute of my church's Homecoming of 122 years where nearly 30 people visited. I even tried to read some history of the many years of service from Paint Lick Christian and there is so very much interest where I just could not fit it all in a few sentences.

I have been at that church since my grandson, Ryan, was a bit over a year old. So, I didn't know a whole lot about everything that transpired in all the years, but I tried.

A deep appreciation to all those who came home one more time. I know we all enjoyed our day together.

I did hear Doug Lamb remark, "It sure does look good to see everyone here at our church once more."

Thank you Doug. You are a jewel.

So, now its back to canning tomatoes this week and helping out at Friends of Paint Lick. A few more green tomatoes will be ready by the week's end and I have been extra busy still picking up in our yard.

It's a never ending job.
Many thanks to Mt Tabor Baptist Church for their donations. I will see that it all goes to someone in need.

I talked with Mrs Rita Davis over the weekend and she looked really good as always, but I'm ashamed that I didn't recognize her right away. I come in contact with lots of people and most seem to know me.

I don't change much ... just get older.

Maybe some of these people could help support the Friends of Paint Lick when they purchase a new t-shirt. I believe we have all sizes ... even for young children.

And you can look around all the different items that we are bringing out — and most is to give away.

We are open on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and as of this writing , I am asking for men's pants, old blue jeans and large pull over shirts. We have workers who come in and they will make you smile as they find out "it's all free."

Their wonder of small give-away clothing always makes me want to "press on regardless," and help all I can.

Tomorrow's another day folks.
May God bless, Katie.
