LONDON — The Laurel County African American Heritage Center marked its annual Martin Luther King Jr. Day celebration on Monday with a full slate of activities held at the London Community Center, highlighted by its traditional unity march from the old county courthouse and back to the community center.

The day began with youth-focused programming at 10 a.m., including a youth pageant that invited children from across the community to showcase their outfits for a chance to win prizes, setting an upbeat and family-centered tone for the observance.

Evening events commenced at 5 p.m. as attendees gathered on the steps of the Laurel County Courthouse. Heritage Center founder and director Wayne Riley was joined by Russel Wood, who delivered the opening prayer. Referencing Matthew 6:9, Wood spoke on the strength found in unity and its importance within the community.

"I really believe brothers and sisters, that's what God would want us to do — come together in unity, worship together, live together, help one another and pray together," said Wood. "And the dream that Martin Luther King, if he was here today, that would be his dream he would tell us."

Murder charge tops Laurel County Indictments

BY MACEE SWAFFORD
STAFF WRITER

LONDON — The Laurel County Grand Jury recently returned several indictments, handing down charges in a series of cases ranging from murder and first-degree assault, to wanton endangerment and failure to comply with sex offender registration requirements.

COURTNEY K. BOONE

Among the most serious indictments is a murder charge filed against Courtney Kay Boone, also known as Courtney Kay Gregory, 37, of East Bernstadt. Boone was indicted in Laurel Circuit Court Division II in connection with the July 13, 2025, death of Ronald Sheldon Lockaby.

According to the indictment, Boone is accused
