LONDON — Members of London City Council met in regular session Monday at the London Community Center — hearing department updates tied largely to the city's winter storm response, approving a resolution recognizing city employees' efforts, and the first reading of an ordinance related to the mayor position's compensation.

Following approval of the agenda and minutes, department head reports highlighted operations during the recent snow and ice event. Philip Rawlings with Public Works reported 12-hour shifts, assistance

AG rules London City Council did not violate Open Meetings Act

LONDON — The Kentucky Attorney General's Office ruled that the London City Council did not violate the Open Meetings Act in connection with its Dec. 3, 2025, meeting, despite complaints that the meeting space was too small and difficult for some attendees to hear.

In a written decision issued last Wednesday, the Office of the Attorney General found that the council's meeting location, while potentially inconvenient, did not rise to the level of a violation under KRS 61.840, which requires public agencies to provide meeting room conditions that allow effective public observation.

LONDON — Circuit Judge Gregory A. Lay has filed to run for a seat on the Kentucky Court of Appeals, representing the 3rd Appellate District.

Lay announced on Monday that he filed his candidacy in Frankfort, seeking the appellate judgeship vacated by the retirement of James Lambert, who served on the Court of Appeals for nearly 20 years.

Lay has served as a circuit judge for the past 21 years, primarily presiding over cases in Knox and Laurel counties. In his announcement, Lay said his time on the circuit bench has included overseeing thousands of cases and has provided him with broad judicial experience he believes would translate effectively to appellate service.

Currently, Lay serves as Chief Regional Circuit Judge for the Cumberland Region, which encompasses 23 counties. In that role, he is responsible for assigning judges to cases when vacancies, recusals or other needs arise. He was appointed to the position by John Minton, former Chief Justice
