

Seasons

Well, another season has turned and fall has come. The days are getting shorter and hopefully the temperatures will start dropping a bit. The kids are back in school and soon the leaves will be turning.

For some reason fall has always been a favorite of mine. I enjoy the chill mornings and listening the rustle of the fallen leaves. People are out walking and visiting in the neighborhood enjoying the break between the deadly heat of summer and the bitter cold of winter. The winter holidays lie just ahead and it seems that everyone is looking forward to the next few months with anticipation. Of course each season has its attractions. Some like the heat of summer and the long days, using them for vacations or outings to the lake. Others like the spring, when the flowers break free of winter's grip and splash color on a winter hardened landscape. There are even those who love the winter, enjoying the crisp cold, and the often crystal clear days, and how the quiet descends with that snow as it falls. Whatever season is your favorite, each has a unique place and purpose in the year. The Lord gave us each season in its course so that the rhythm of life would flow from one to the other. The cold of winter gives rest to the land and hopefully to people as well. The spring bursts forth in new life and hard work to begin the new year. In summer the crops grow and we get a little break, do a little weeding, and get ready for the harvest of fall. Those patterns repeat themselves each year, though in our modern world, we can sometimes miss the flow. But the Lord established the seasons and we should not forget that there are seasons in life as well. Some seasons are seasons of sweat and hard work, some are seasons of reaping the rewards, and some are seasons of rest.

Solomon wrote, "For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven." (Ecclesiastes 3:1 ESV) In the following verses he talks about planting and harvesting, about living and dying, even about making peace or war. He reminds us that there is a season for sorrow as well as a season for joy. As fall begins around us, I don't know what season of life you are experiencing. If you are in that season of laughter and joy, then rejoice and enjoy each precious moment. But if you are in that season of sorrow or distress please remember, it is only a season and it will pass. And whatever season you are in, remember that the Lord made the seasons, and He walks with you through them. In the cold tears of winter, or the smiling spring of life, trust Him and know that He is near.
