Registered voters can check their registration information, find their polling locations and obtain additional election information through Kentucky's official voter information website at www.GoVote.KY.gov.

Additional information is available through the Monroe County Clerk's Office or its website at monroecountyclerk.ky.gov.

The sample ballot for the General Election can be found on page A-5.

Several federal and state offices are on the ballot, while the majority of the county-wide races have already been decided as the Primary winners had no opposition.

Monroe County voters will help select Kentucky's next United States senator, a representative to Congress and members of the Kentucky General Assembly.

One of the most closely watched contests statewide is the race for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Republican Sen. Mitch McConnell, who is not seeking another term.

Republican Andy Barr, Democratic candidate Charles Booker and Kentucky Party candidate Christopher Campbell are seeking the seat.

Barr currently represents Kentucky's 6th Congressional District in the U.S. House of Representatives. Booker is a former Kentucky state representative who previously ran for the U.S. Senate in 2022. Campbell is running as the Kentucky Party candidate.

Thomas Murphy has also filed as an independent write-in candidate.

The winner will serve a six-year term representing Kentucky in the U.S. Senate.

In Kentucky's 1st Congressional District, Republican incumbent James R. Comer is seeking another term against Democratic challenger John "Drew" Williams.

Comer, a Monroe County native and former Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture, has represented the district in Congress since 2016. He currently serves as chairman of the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee.

Williams is a western Kentucky businessman challenging Comer for the congressional seat.

The winner will serve a two-year term in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Republican incumbent Max Wise is seeking another term representing Kentucky's 16th Senate District. He is unopposed and has served in the Kentucky Senate since 2015, is currently the Senate Majority Floor Leader.

Republican State Rep. Amy Neighbors is seeking reelection to represent Kentucky's 21st House District, which includes Monroe County. She is also unopposed.

Incumbent District Judge Kristi Castillo is seeking another term in Kentucky's 59th Judicial District, which serves Monroe and Cumberland counties. She is unopposed.

Locally, Joe Neal Finley and Carrie Jo Smith Hunter are vying for the School Board seat for District 2, while Tanner Kendall is unopposed for the District 5 seat.

(Information concerning the District 2 seat, which has been left vacant with the death of Bobby Gentry recently can be found in the legal notices this week.)

In the City legislative bodies, all three Mayoral races have competition with Tompkinsville incumbent Micheal Bowe facing off against Josh Page; Gamaliel incumbent Bob Greer being challenged by Roger Barlow and Fountain Run incumbent Michele Houchens facing challenger Melissa Brown.

Each of the City's commissions will have four seats chosen from candidates:

— Tompkinsville: Tony Bartley, Lewis Hestand, Norman Clarkson, Jamie Adams, Frank Tooley, Thomas Bartley, Sara Wilson, Tony Irvin, Lisa Warren, Bob

Richardson and Casey Ford;

— Gamaliel: No candidates filed; and — Fountain Run: Bryan Maynard, Aaron Hatfield, Windy Costa, Amanda Frye and Beth Cross.

Four candidates are seeking three seats on the Monroe County Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors.

They are Loretta Lyons, Ethan Brown, Jason Holland and Kirk Cecil.
