No campaign signs on highway rights of way

FLEMINGSBURG – The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet reminds political candidates and property owners that campaign, yard sale, business, and other non-official signs are prohibited on state highway rights of way.

“Our primary concern is safety for drivers as well as for our employees and contractors who work to maintain the state’s roadways,” said Chief District Engineer Steve Gunnell of Kentucky Department of Highways District 9.

“Illegally placed signs are a distraction and can be a safety issue for motorists when blocking the view of oncoming vehicles,” Gunnell said. “They can also endanger mowing crews or pose a hazard to drivers who run off the roadway – particularly when installed with large wooden or metal stakes.”

Kentucky law and Transportation Cabinet policy prohibit the placement of any non-official signs on state right of way.

The prohibi- tion includes both free-standing signs and signage attached to permanent state highway signs, utility poles, and guardrails.

State highway crews in northeast Kentucky will remove signs as needed, especially during roadside mow- ing operations this fall.

Where right-of-way markers or fences are not visible, the right of way extends from 15-30 feet from pave- ment edge.

Signage should be behind sidewalks or behind the ditch line and outside areas com- monly mowed or main- tained by the state.

On four-lane high- ways with controlled access or limited access, no signs or other materials should be placed on the high- way side of the fence or on the fence itself.

Removed signs will be held at state main- tenance facilities in each county for a short period of time and may be picked up at those locations by the owner or a representative with proper identification.

And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved;
Mark 16:15-16a (KJV)

After the resurrection, right before Jesus ascended into Heaven, He gave the disci- ples these instructions, known as The Great Commission. He wanted them to spread the word that He was crucified for our sins yet rose from grave, showing that He had power over death, hell, and the grave. He did all of that so that we might be saved and have eter- nal life with Him in Heaven.

This Great Commission doesn't just apply to the disciples that walked with Jesus, how- ever. Jesus wants us to continue still today to spread the Good News to a lost and dying world. There is an old song called “Everybody Ought to Know”. The lyric says “Everybody ought to know who Jesus is”. The second verse continues to say, “Everybody ought to tell who Jesus is”. Have you told someone lately who Jesus is? Are you fulfilling The Great Commission? Tell someone today about Jesus and what He has done in your life!
