

Not your normal Days of Our Lives Recap

Poor Holly Jonas. She has been on her deathbed from arsenic poisoning, and her mother, who lives in Paris, France, came to visit her in the hospital for like five minutes. Then she left because Holly's brother back home is younger and cuter. While in a coma, Holly's eyebrows grew five inches taller, like Hershey Bars. EJ DiMera, former stepdad of Holly, slung some illegal drugs in her backpack to throw off the hospital staff's meddling into DiMera Pharmaceuticals and their accidental arsenic poisoning oopsy. This will automatically knock him out of the Father of the Year Award. EJ got in a teensie of trouble with the state hospital board for using the hospital lab to try to raise people from the dead, a hobby he's really not very good at. Just ask all the rat families of the dead lab rats. This opened the door for Gwen Rice Chex to possibly buy the hospital. Chad DiMera and Belle Black, who haven't gone to work in about 20 weeks but go to restaurants to talk and giggle, continue to try to solve the mystery of the raggedy chess set Stefano willed to Dr. Marlena Evans. Since both Chad and Belle are freeloaders living in other people's houses, not going to work isn't really a big deal. They decide to go to Italy to investigate the raggedy chess set mystery further. Gabi Hernandez DiMera is filthy rich now that Stefano's estate is settled, and she wants to fling big dollar bills at her daughter so she will like her again. Gabi paid a guy that her daughter was sweet on to leave town because she did not think he was a wise decision. Because other than kidnapping, pushing people down stairs, lying, sneaking, betraying, and trying to suffocate people and such, ole Gabi always makes good decisions. Meanwhile, back at the pathetic Salem Hospital, Dr. Sarah and Tate upset Holly, accusing her of taking drugs after the ones EJ flung in her backpack are discovered. They both tell Holly to calm down, because nothing makes someone calm down like people telling them to calm down. They leave her hospital room after she screams for them to get out. Holly, realizing not one person on planet earth supports or believes her, packs up her belongings, and her eyebrows, and sneaks out of the hospital.
